Exercises, Factory SDJ2

Exercise: StarSign

This example represents a system creating and storing star signs from both the Zodiac signs and the Chinese signs. This time, the factory not only produces the star sign but also store them into its own internal list. If you later request the same star sign then it will not be re-generated but a reference to the same star sign will be provided.